AMOUNT OF MARTIN'S BOND SET AT $12,000

Court Gives Decision After Hearing Arguments

DR. LEWIS ASKS $20,000

Prothonotary Contest is Started--Commissioner to be Appointed Later

The matter of fixing the bond for the costs in the contest proceedings which Joe W. Martin, the Democratic-Keystone candidate for prothonotary, has instituted against Dr. A. V. Lewis the Republican candidate, who was elected by a majority of 12, was decided Tuesday in court by Judge J. F. Taylor, who will sit in the case. Judge Taylor fixed the amount of the bond to be given by Mr. Martin at $12,000.

In addition to Owen C. Underwood, of Underwood & Meloy, James I. Brownson, of Donnans, Brownson & Miller, appeared for Dr. Lewis. For Martin, in addition to B. B. Barr and Albert S. Sprowls, A. G. Braden and R. W. Knox appeared in the case. Counsel for Dr. Lewis insisted that the amount of the bond be $20,000. Counsel for Mr. Martin insisted that a bond of $4,000 or $5,000 would be sufficient. The decision of the court as to the amount was satisfactory, and Mr. Martin will at once give such a bond.

As to the appointment of a commissioner, it was agreed that the appointment would be taken up later, probably after an answer has been filed so that it may be ascertained just what scope the investigation may take.

Both Mr. Martin and Mr. Lewis were present in court.

PRESENTS BUST OF NOTED MAN

In honor of the memory of Pennsylvania's most noted jurist, a bust of John Banister Gibson was presented last week to the Cumberland County Historical Society at Carlisle by Col. Thomas P. Roberts of Pittsburg, a grandson of the most distinguished Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court.

The presentation of the bust was made by John Hays in behalf of the donor and for the historical society was accepted by Dr. Charles F. Himes.

Col. Thomas P. Roberts who presented the bust is a son of Milner Roberts, one of the early engineers of the Pennsylvania Railroad and at the time of his death chief engineer of the Brazilian Empire. The latter was also the father of R. A. Roberts of Charleroi.

HOPE TO SECURE SUNDAY

Evangelist Burrows Not to be Invited to Charleroi

SPECIAL MEETING HELD

Owing to the possibility of getting Rev. Billy Sunday at a later date it has been deemed advisable not to have Rev. A. E. Burrows, the evangelist who recently held meetings at the Methodist Church to conduct an evangelistic campaign here next summer. Tuesday night a meeting of ministers and laymen of the various churches was held at the First Presbyterian church, and because of an adverse sentiment to securing the services of Rev. Burows the matter was dropped.

It had been proposed to secure Rev. Burrows and his co-workers for an evangelistic campaign the latter part of May or the first of next June. He was to have brought his large tabernacle and in that agreement it was to be specified that this tabernacle be used for the two days' session of the Sunday School convention.

At the meeting Tuesday night the matter was fully discussed with the result that a resolution was carried dismissing the idea of securing Rev. Burrows. There are prospects of getting Rev. Sunday, it is stated, but the date is uncertain.

COUNTY HOME IN GOOD CONDITION

Inmates Well Cared for by Superintendent Quivey and His Workers

NEW RULES ARE OBEYED

When the last grand jury visited the County Home this month at Arden the following information was furnished to the Washington Reporter by Supt. Quivy which may be of interest to the people generally who have little knowledge as to the maintenance of our county wards:

"At present there are 197 inmates of the Home, 56 of whom are women. Forty of the men are in the hospital in various stages of physical depression. Four of the number in ill health are tubercular patients, and are kept in the tubercular hospital, which is separate and distinct from the home building proper. Three of the men in the general hospital have broken backs one of the number having his legs amputated some little time ago, after receiving almost fatal injuries in a coal mine accident. Sixteen of the men are partially insane, but are not in any manner dangerous. They cause the assistants much trouble frequently, but are not vicious in their whims.

"Mr. Quivey reports that of these 141 men in the home, but 22 are able to do a day's work, with about an equal number who can do light chores and run errands. The remainder of the male inmates do no work of any description. Of the 197 male and female inmates, 102 can read and write.

"Twelve of the 56 female inmates are able to assist in light work at the home and in caring for the sick. Some half dozen of the women are partially insane, frequently causing the matrons of the institution considerable care and trouble. Four of the male inmates are totally blind, and one female is devoid of eyesight. The inmates all conform strictly to regulations and are found in their places at all times, according to directions of the superintendent and his helpers.

"At 6 o'clock in the winter time and 5:30 in the summer all rise and prepare for breakfast a half hour later. When the breakfast bell is sounded all take their places quietly at the tables and eat quietly. Dinner is served at 11 o'clock sharp, and supper at 4:30 in the winter and 5:00 in the summer. At 8:30 o'clock a bell is sounded, warning the inmates it

RICH MAN'S TOWN IS WASHINGTON

Unique Reasons Given Why Cost of Living is High at County Seat

HARD TO GET STUDENTS

"Washington is being held back as an industrial and residential center because it is a rich man's town."

This is the gist of two addresses and much discussion at a meeting of the Washington board of trade at the county seat last week. The speakers of the occasion were Rufus S. Marriner, of the local bar, and R. M. Murphy, student solicitor of Washington and Jefferson College. Both speakers called attention to the high cost of living in Washington, and placed the blame on the fact that Washington is known as "a rich man's town."

Murphy, who journeyed over the land securing students for the school told of the trouble he had in persuading parents to send their boys there. He said the principal argument he was compelled to meet was the cost of boarding, which is about one-third higher than in many other college towns.

Other facts were brought forward to prove that the "rich man's town" reputation was decidedly hurtful to the progress of the place.

The board of trade named a committee to go into the question more fully and present accurate data on the cost of living at the county seat as compared with that in other towns of the same size.

THANKSGIVING.

The business and social world takes a holiday tomorrow in observance of the time honored period of Thanksgiving—the day set apart by executive proclamation to give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings we have enjoyed during the past year, with perhaps a passing thought of the mercies and bounties we hope to enjoy during the coming year. Forgetful of the solemnity of the occasion the observance for the most part will be devoted to feasting, merrymaking and joyous greetings, rather than a sober realization that the storms of life weathered during the past year have been portentious in every person's existence, and that a safe landing in the harbor of another year is a blessing only to be realized after the Pale Rider makes a visitation to the household.

It is well to look with serious retrospect upon the past, and to realize the portentiousness of the future. Those who have survived should appreciate the fact that their destiny is yet unfulfilled, and resolve anew to devote their best efforts in fulfilling life's mission during the coming year. The past will reveal the mistakes and foibles, which can be corrected and avoided in the next voyage. It is well to rejoice and be glad on Thanksgiving, but the seriousness of the occasion in the retrospect of the blessings and mercies which have been ours during the past year should temper the merry making with a real spirit of thanksgiving.

THE FORBIDDEN WAY.

The publication of a recent book, dealing with the sharp practices in industrial promotions and business enterprises serves to call passing attention again to the one feature that has had more to do, perhaps, in demoralizing business and causing popular discontent, increasing the cost of living and upsetting existing social conditions than any other one cause. This is the stock watering process of floating business enterprises, creating fictitious values and working off on the people securities which have no value whatever. The title of the book is "The Forbidden Way,' and it has a most fitting application to existing conditions.

When this world was considerably younger than it is now the "Forbidden Way" was clearly indicated in the divine commandment "Thou shalt not steal," and "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods." These formed the basis of what is now referred to as old-fashioned ideas of honesty. This was the code of ethics that formerly prevailed in business transactions and if fortunes were not accumulated so rapidly in those days as now, they were not ground out of the faces of the poor, nor based on false pretense. It is true that the craze to get rick quick and realize something for nothing has prompted millions of people to throw discretion to the winds and risk their hard earned wealth in ventures that on the face of them cannot be anything but swindles. The person who loses his competence in a wildcat venture is down and out in his little sphere of action, and with his progress checked and resources gone he becomes a derelict in the world of business in his community, which is a distinct loser.

It seems to be a hard lesson to learn that legitimate business profits are but little if any higher than the legal rates of interest, and that real wealth must be created by labor and sacrifice. The exploitation of fictitious values and stock watered companies has done more to upset business conditions in this country than any one thing, and it is the prime cause of the industrial depression that now prevails.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"The best Thanksgiving dinner I ever had was one in the lumber woods up in the northern part of the State a number of years ago," remarked a citizen, while discussing the annual Thanksgiving holiday. "I was a young fellow then and had hired out early in May on a bark and log job. We were six miles in the woods from the nearest hamlet, and I staid on the job all summer, only going out a couple of days for the Fourth of July. When Thanksgiving came twelve of us were in the camp skidding the logs we had peeled and cut during the usmmer. All but three of us—young fellows whose homes were not nearby, and the man cook—left the camp for Thanksgiving.

"The night before we got after the cook to get us up a Thanksgiving dinner and he entered into the spirit. He had received a whole dressed hog that week, which with potatoes, turnnips, cabbage and onions and some of the other staple raw material, constituted our fare. The cook cut out some fine spareribs, which he roasted, and for side dishes had mashed potatoes, turnips and boiled onions. A couple of us tramped throgh the snow to a small farm a couple of miles distant and got some milk, and the cook concocted an Indian meal bag pudding for dessert, for which he made a dres-sing, as well as a dressing for some cold slow.

"After our plain fare that was a most regal feast, and I have never eaten a Thanksgiving dinner since that I enjoyed as much as I did that one I'd give a good deal if I had the same appetite and relish now that that I had then."

"This custom of buying groceries and food products in packages and cans, instetad of by weight and measure, reminds me of my experience with the monetary system in the Philippines," remarked a Spanish-American war veteran the other day "In that free silver country their fractional copper coins had such a small value compared with our gold standard, that it took about a peck of the stuff to make a dollar of our money. When we used to play poker we bet small and large handfuls. For instance when one wanted to stay, but did not have a good hand he would say, 'I'll go you a small handful,' and would produce a moderate fistful of the Philippino copper coins. If he had three aces and a pair, he'd say 'I'm in for a big handful,' and would produce all the coins he could grab.

"This is about the way you buy groceries in boxes and packages now, not by weight and measure, but by the handful, the size dependent upon what profit the manufacturer thinks he ought to have. The result is that instead of a big or little handful you get a small or a smaller handful."

Buddhism and Animal Life.

It must be said of Buddhism that it has left one indelible mark all over India, China, and the east, and that is the teaching of gentleness and kindness to one another and to animals. Buddha taught that life is but a prolonged endeavor to escape from suffering, and that, therefore, to cause others to suffer is the unforgiveable sin.—Price Collier in Scribner's Magazine.

Life of the Grapevine.

There are some who contend that the life of the grapevine is longer than that of the oak. It is rare that a wild grapevine is found that has died of old age. Pliny mentions a vine 600 years old. There is a vine at Hampton Court, England, planted in 1769, while here in America there is a wild grapevine on the shores of Mobile Bay, within a mile of Daphne, Ala. commonly known as the "General Jackson" vine, more than 6 feet in circumference at its base. There is a grapevine in Carpenteria, Cal., under which more than eight hundred persons may stand. Its trunk is eight feet in diameter at the base and it has borne as high as ten tons of fruit. It is said that this vine was planted in 1842.

Good Mental Tonic.

As appearance means so much to the average woman, mentally as well as socially, the question often arises, "Is she justified in aiding or improving nature if she sees fit?" Many of our well-known medical men think that "make-up" is as good a mental tonic as anyone can take and greatly advise its use, especially for the girl who has some slight personal defect—a scar, a poor complexion or bloodless lips, for the knowledge of her defects makes her shy and oftentimes sulky and miserable.

Artist—This is my painting, "Youth in the Melon Patch."

Critic—But where are the melons?

Artist—What a foiish question!

ODD WAYS OF THE COMMONS

Illustrated by the Imminent Peril of Mr. Pearce, Who Read Newspaper During Session.

A member of the British parliament remarks in London Opinion that the rules of the house of commons are past all understanding, and then proceeds to cite the case of Mr. Pearce, M. P., and the imminent danger in which he one day appeared to be. This was when the sergeant-at-arms, with his terrible sword in hand, rose from his chair and rushed with cyclonic speed in the direction of the mild, meek and altogether unconscious-of-offense member. It was quickly made clear what was the cause of this hasty saber charge by the sergeant. Mr. Pearce had actually been reading a newspaper, and there is no more heinous offense known to parliament. The members when in the chamber are not permitted to read newspapers for any purpose not immediately connected with the debate actually in progress, though one may succeed in doing it surreptitiously by folding the newspaper small and concealing it behind the order paper of the day, much like a boy may nibble at an apple in school, concealing the pippin behind his spelling book. Yet more gross breaches of parliamentary etiquette and decorum may be seen, members even wearing their hats when a fellow member is addressing the house, and even the dearest friends of an orator may go to sleep while he is delivering his choicest periods.

FIGHTING DISEASE ON THE FARM

Scientific Methods of State Board in Protecting Live Stock Investments.

PLANS SAVING OF MILLIONS

Vigorous Campaign Against Bovine Tuberculosis—Value of Laboratory Work to Stockmen and Veterinarians.

A state board at Harrisburg proposes to save the farmers of Pennsylvania five million dollars a year. It is estimated that the farmers of this state annually lose live stock worth that amount of money by diseases which can be prevented. The State Live Stock Sanitary Board has rendered valuable service to the Pennsylvania farmer since its organization fourteen years ago, but its work appears to have only begun. The last census shows that there are 206,975 farms in Pennsylvania, and that the value of the live stock on these farms is $133,219,000. The plans of the state board to protect this investment from preventable losses from disease are being closely followed, not only by live stock raisers and breeders of the United States, but by those abroad.

Pennsylvania was the first state to organize and properly equip a laboratory where diseases of animals could be studied and recognized. It has proven of inestimable value to stockmen and veterinarians. It is located at the veterinary school in Philadelphia, where all possible facilities are employed to study the mysterious diseases of animals. The laboratory is under the direction of Dr. Karl F. Meyer, who was trained in the best schools of continental Europe. Dr. Meyer also has charge of experimental work on the state farm, which is located in Delaware County. He, with his staff of qualified assistants, are engaged in studying the diseases of domestic animals in Pennsylvania. At the same time they are engaged in the preparation of many test fluids, such as tuberculin, mallein, etc., for the diagnosis of disease. The preparation of vaccine and sera for all diseases against which preventive vaccination measures can be taken, are made in accordance with the latest advancements of science.

Wide Range of Laboratory Work.

Since Jan. 1, 1911, 32,000 doses of tuberculin, 1000 doses of anthrax vaccine and sixty gallons of hog cholera serum have been prepared in the laboratory and distributed among Pennsylvania farmers free of cost. These three products alone, if purchased in the market, would have cost practically $15,000; more than half the amount of money appropriated for laboratory work for the next two years. Hog cholera causes the largest proportionate loss of any disease of swine, and this industry represents a money value of over six million dollars. Much of the laboratory work has been done under adverse circumstances, but ample facilities are now provided for doing the work under the best and safest conditions and much better results may be expected in the future.

During the period referred to the laboratory examined 550 pathological specimens sent in by local practitioners. In many cases the cause of the disease was discovered and valuable information furnished for handling it. The diseases caused by poisonous plants and parasites have been made the subject of special investigation. The laboratory has gained an international reputation on account of its tuberculosis research work, and it is hoped that with the improved facilities and equipment furnished by the state that it will take a prominent place among those of the countries of Europe in veterinry research work.

The fight of the board against bovine tuberculosis is an impressive feature of its efficient service to the cattle industry. This was one of the first animal diseases to receive the board's attention. The plans for handling it were carefully made and judiciously executed. The first tuberculin testing in America was done by the late Dr. Leonard Pearson, and a vigorous campaign against this disease has been directed.

Menace of Bovine Tuberculosis.

The laws and rules regulating the board's work are recognized as the best by veterinarians throughout the country. Recently during six weeks 3742 head of cattle, brought into Pennsylvania for dairy purposes were submitted to the test. Of this number twenty-three failed to pass the test. During the same period 952 native cows were tested for farmers and forty were condemned and safely eliminated from the herds. Dealers are much more in sympathy with [illegible] testing animals prone[illegible] them for sale. Dairymen [illegible] much more careful in purchasing cattle that are free [illegible] than the were formerly. [illegible] efficient realize that a dairy herd cannot be conducted profitably unless the disease is checked.

The importance of keeping tuberculosis free herds is still more apparent in breeding herds. All states in which dairying is carried on extensively have laws requiring that dairy and breeding cattle must be properly tested before they can be accepted from another state or country. It is imperative that dealers, dairymen and breeders should observe the laws, rules and regulations for shipping cattle from one state to another in accordance with the requirements of the state live stock sanitary board. The federal authorities have wisely provided that cattle failing to pass a tuberculin test cannot be shipped or moved from one state to another.

Rabies is one of the most important diseases with which the state board has to deal. A rabid dog frequently bites and infects several animals in a herd, and the owner is not aware of its visit until the animal bitten shows symptoms of a strange disease that is seldom diagnosed properly until a veterinarian is called.

Decline of Sheep Industry.

A few years ago Pennsylvania ranked high as a sheep raising state, while at the present time comparatively few sheep are kept. The decline followed to a marked degree the development of mining in the western section of the state, not only because the mining operations decreased the amount of pasture lands, but because of the great number of foreigners who worked in the mines and gathered about them a vast horde of worthless dogs, over which they had little or no control. These dogs were underfed, not confined and roamed about, fought with other dogs and spread rabies through those sections.

During two months of this year thirty-four cases of rabies were reported from twenty-four counties, and in five additional cases the diagnosis of rabies was made at the laboratory. Quarantines to the number of 161 were served on 425 animals, and they were kept under close observation for 100 days In four communities it was necessary to establish general quarantines, which covered territory ranging in size from one to five townships In addition to suppressing and eradicating the disease the state board, through representatives in the field, is endeavoring to educate farmers as to the symptoms presented by different animals affected with rabies

Anthrax has been prevalent in several sections of the state for years, and in some cases the losses have been high For the past few years the board has recommended the annual spring vaccination of animals against anthrax in sections where the disease has been known to exist.

Expense Borne by the State.

The work is done atthe expense of the state and the results have been uniformly satisfactory. In addition to the annual spring vaccination 457 animals were immunized this year during July and August in five counties Blackleg occurs occasionally in all portions of the state. It has many points in common with anthrax and preventive vaccination is the only means known for checking it. The state board has been remarkably successful in fighting it.

A quarantine against Texas fever has been maintained by the federal bureau of animal industry for years, yet occosionally native cattle are confined in sheds, driven across chutes or shipped in cars that have been contaminated by southern cattle and have not been properly cleaned or disinfected. During the past summer three outbreaks occurred in Pennsylvania In each case the disease was recognized promptly and its spread immediately checked Nearly 200 animals were exposed and twenty-four died.

The board employs agents to supervise slaughter houses in the rural districts of the state As a result the rural slaughter houses now are better equipped, cleaner and far better managed than ever before. Many diseased carcasses, which would have found their way to the table if they had not been discovered by these agents, have been condemned and destroyed. The state provides money to pay the owner the appraised value of a condemned tuberculous carcass so he will not be tempted to dispose of it for food purposes to prevent his own loss.

Support of Tener Administration.

A milk hygiene service recently has been organized. Three qualified agents have been selected to travel through the state and assist the local agents in carrying out the requirements of the board The bulk of the work will be carried on by local veterinarians. Their principal duties at first will be along educational lines.

The live stock sanitary board has received the support of every legislature since its organization. The favorable attitude of Governor John K. Tener is indicated by his deep interest in its work and his approval of measures intended to increase its efficiency Governor Tener is president of the board Its work is directed by Dr. C. J. Marshall state veterinarian, and one on the highest authorities in this country on the diseases of domestic animals

Woman and the Farm.

In defining woman's relation to the life of the farm, one needs but little reflection to become aware of the all-pervading quality of that relationship. Just as the monarch of France, when asked to define the state, exclaimed, "The state; I am the state." So might the farmer's wife, when questioned as to the life of the farm, respond, "I am the life of the farm."

is time to retire for the night, and five minutes later all lights are extinguished.

"Every two weeks at 2:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoons, regular preaching services are held in the chapel, and the majority of the inmates, both men and women, attend. On alternate Sunday afternoons Mrs. Lide Hughes of Washington, is in charge of religious services at the home. Many of the inmates take considerable interest in these religious services.

"W. A. Ross, farmer at the County Home, submitted a brief report of the grain and provender raised on the farm the past season as follows: Fifteen hundred bushels of good corn was raised on the farm, and a considerable part of immatured stalks and ears was harvested and placed in a building 16x32 feet to form what is commonly called corn ensilage.

"The amount of oats harvested was 240 bushels, and of wheat 260 bushels The hay crop was light, owing to the long continued drought of last summer, but as it was from 40 to 50 tons of timothy and clover mixed were harvested. Only about 130 bushels of potatoes were grown on the farm the past season. If the weather had been more favorable instead of the long dry spell, from five to ten times that number of tubers would have been grown. In lieu of the deficiency in potatoes, Mr. Ross decided to try his luck at turnip growing and succeeded in raising more than 400 bushels.

"Mr. Ross reports that at present they have 85 head of thrifty hogs, and they expect to butcher 50 or more of that number in a short time. Nineteen head of milch cows are kept on the farm; also three head of horses, and a span of mules.

"Nearly two years ago the matter of drilling two gas wells on the County Home and Children's Home properties was taken into consideration by the grand jury, and it was recommended that the wells be drilled immediately. The following spring the wells were put down and both came in good gassers. The wells are keeping up a strong pressure and are supplying both institutions with an abundance of fuel and light. It is calculated that these wells have paid for the expense of drilling them twice over in the time elapsing since they were drilled.

"Owing to a quarantine existing at the Children's Home where one of the matrons is ill of scarlet fever the members of the grand jury were unable to visit that institution. They report themselves as being well pleased with the manner in which affairs are being conducted at the County Home by Superintendent and Mrs. Quivey and their corps of assistants."

Prison Recreations.

In German prisons chess clubs are by no means uncommon. They are encouraged by the authorities as providing healthful mental relaxation for well-conducted prisoners. Recently the inmates of Brixton prison have been regaled with oratorios, while at Aylesbury there are lectures and services of song.

Sarcastic Judge.

Baron Maule, in one of his sarcastic moods, addressed from the bench a barrister friend of mine thus: "Mr. Barker, could you not state your facts in some kind of order? Chronological is the best, but if you cannot manage that, try some other; alphabetical, if you please."—Sir Francis H. Doyle, "Reminiscences."

Prepared for Emergency.

"What makes you keep giving me fish for dinner day after day?" he inquired. "Are you particularly fond of it?" "No," she replied, "I was wholly unselfish. I read a lovely recipe about how to remove a fish bone when it sticks in your throat, and I wanted to try it."

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD

A delightful birthday party was given at the home of Mrs. J. T. Hormell Monday evening in honor of her son, Everett, it being his 13th birthday. Many of his little friends were present and he received quite a number of presents. The evening was spent in playing games of various kinds. Several selections were given on the piano by Francis Hott and Everett Hormell. Lunch was served at 9 o'clock. All the guests departed at a late hour, wishing their host many more birthdays.

AMOUNT OF MARTIN'S BOND SET AT $12,000

Court Gives Decision After Hearing Arguments

DR. LEWIS ASKS $20,000

Prothonotary Contest is Started--Commissioner to be Appointed Later

The matter of fixing the bond for the costs in the contest proceedings which Joe W Martin, the Democratic-Keystone candidate for prothonotary, has instituted against Dr. A. V. Lewis the Republican candidate, who was elected by a majority of 12, was decided Tuesday in court by Judge J F. Taylor, who will sit in the case Judge Taylor fixed the amount of the bond to be given by Mr. Martin at $12,000.

In addition to Owen C. Underwood, of Underwood & Meloy. James I. Brownson, of Donnans, Brownson & Miller, appeared for Dr. Lewis For Martin, in addition to B. B. Barr and Albert S. Sprowls, A. G. Braden and R. W. Knox appeared in the case Counsel for Dr. Lewis insisted that the amount of the bond be $20,000. Counsel for Mr. Martin insisted that a bond of $4,000 or $5,000 would be sufficient. The decision of the court as to the amount was satisfactory, and Mr. Martin will at once give such a bond.

As to the appointment of a commissioner, it was agreed that the appointment would be taken up later, probably after an answer has been filed so that it may be ascertained just what scope the investigation may take.

Both Mr Martin and Mr. Lewis were present in court.

HOPE TO SECURE SUNDAY

Evangelist Burrows Not to be Invited to Charleroi

SPECIAL MEETING HELD

Owing to the possibility of getting Rev. Billy Sunday at a later date it has been deemed advisable not to have Rev. A. E. Burrows, the evangelist who recently held meetings at the Methodist Church to conduct an evangelistic campaign here next summer. Tuesday night a meeting of ministers and laymen of the various churches was held at the First Presbyterian church, and because of an adverse sentiment to securing the services of Rev. Burows the matter was dropped.

It had been proposed to secure Rev. Burrows and his co-workers for an evangelistic campaign the latter part of May or the first of next June. He was to have brought his large tabernacle and in that agreement it was to be specified that this tabernacle be used for the two days' session of the Sunday School convention.

At the meeting Tuesday night the matter was fully discussed with the result that a resolution was carried dismissing the idea of securing Rev. Burrows. There are prospects of getting Rev. Sunday, it is stated, but the date is uncertain.

COUNTY HOME IN GOOD CONDITION

Inmates Well Cared for by Superintendent Quivey and His Workers

NEW RULES ARE OBEYED

When the last grand jury visited the County Home this month at Arden the following information was furnished to the Washington Reporter by Supt Quivy which may be of interest to the people generally who have little knowledge as to the maintenance of our county wards:

"At present there are 197 inmates of the Home, 56 of whom are women Forty of the men are in the hospital in various stages of physical depression. Four of the number in ill health are tubercular patients. and are kept in the tubercular hospital, which is separate and disunct from the home building proper. Three of the men in the general hospital have broken backs one of the number having his legs amputated some little time ago, after receiving almost fatal injuries in a coal mine accident. Sixteen of the men are partially insane, but are not in any manner dangerous. They cause the assistants much trouble frequently, but are not vicious in their whims.

"Mr. Quivey reports that of these 141 men in the home, but 22 are able to do a day's work, with about an equal number who can do light chores and run errands. The remainder of the male inmates do no work of any description Of the 197 male and female inmates, 102 can read and write.

"Twelve of the 56 female inmates are able to assist in light work at the home and in caring for the sick. Some half dozen of the women are partially insane, frequently causing the matrons of the institution considerable care and trouble. Four of the male inmates are totally blind, and one female is devoid of eyesight The inmates all conform strictly to regulations and are found in their places at all times, according to directions of the superintendent and his helpers

"At 6 o'clock in the winter time and 5:30 in the summer all rise and prepare for breakfast a half hour later When the breakfast bell is sounded all take their places quietly at the tables and eat quietly. Dinner is served at 11 o'clock sharp, and supper at 4:30 in the winter and 5:00 in the summer. At 8:30 o'clock a bell is sounded, warning the inmates it

Unique Reasons Given Why Cost of Living is High at County Seat

HARD TO GET STUDENTS

"Washington is being held back as an industrial and residential center because it is a rich man's town"

This is the gist of two addresses and much discussion at a meeting of the Washington board of trade at the county seat last week The speakers of the occasion were Rufus S. Marriner, of the local bar, and R M. Murphy, student solicitor of Washington and Jefferson College. Both speakers called attention to the high cost of living in Washington, and placed the blame on the fact that Washington is known as "a rich man's town."

Murphy, who journeyed over the land securing students for the school told of the trouble he had in persuading parents to send their boys there He said the principal argument he was compelled to meet was the cost of boarding, which is about one-third higher than in many other college towns.

Other facts were brought forward to prove that the "rich man's town" reputation was decidedly hurtful to the progress of the place.

The board of trade named a committee to go into the question more fully and present accurate data on the cost of living at the county seat as compared with that in other towns of the same size.

THANKSGIVING.

The business and social world takes a holiday tomorrow in observance of the time honored period of Thanksgiving—the day set apart by executive proclamation to give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings we have enjoyed during the past year, with perhaps a passing thought of the mercies and bounties we hope to enjoy during the coming year. Forgetful of the solemnity of the occasion the observance for the most part will be devoted to feasting, merrymaking and joyous greetings, rather than a sober realization that the storms of life weathered during the past year have been portentious in every person's existence, and that a safe landing in the harbor of another year is a blessing only to be realized after the Pale Rider makes a visitation to the household.

It is well to look with serious retrospect upon the past, and to realize the portentiousness of the future. Those who have survived should appreciate the fact that their destiny is yet unfulfilled, and resolve anew to devote their best efforts in fulfilling life's mission during the coming year. The past will reveal the mistakes and foibles, which can be corrected and avoided in the next voyage. It is well to rejoice and be glad on Thanksgiving, but the seriousness of the occasion in the retrospect of the blessings and mercies which have been ours during the past year should temper the merry making with a real spirit of thanksgiving

THE FORBIDDEN WAY.

The publication of a recent book, dealing with the sharp practices in industrial promotions and business enterprises serves to call passing attention again to the one feature that has had more to do, perhaps, in depressing business and causing popular discontent, increasing the cost of living and upsetting existing social conditions than any other one cause. This is the stock watering process of floating business enterprises, creating fictitious values and working off on the people securities which have no value whatever. The title of the book is "The Forbidden Way,' and it has a most fitting application to existing conditions.

When this world was considerably younger than it is now the "Forbidden Way" was clearly indicated in the divine commandment "Thou shalt not steal," and "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's goods." These formed the basis of what is now referred to as old-fashioned ideas of honesty. This was the code of ethics that formerly prevailed in business transactions and if fortunes were not accumulated so rapidly in those days as now, they were not ground out of the faces of the poor, nor based on false pretense. It is true that the craze to get rich quick and realize something for nothing has prompted millions of people to throw discretion to the winds and risk their hard earned wealth in ventures that on the face of them cannot be anything but swindles The person who loses his competence in a wildcat venture is down and out in his little sphere of action, and with his progress checked and resources gone he becomes a derelict in the world of business in his community, which is a distinct loser.

It seems to be a hard lesson to learn that legitimate business profits are but little if any higher than the legal rates of interest, and that real wealth must be created by labor and sacrifice. The exploitation of fictitious values and stock watered companies has done more to upset business conditions in this country than any one thing, and it is the prime cause of the industrial depression that now prevails.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"The best Thanksgiving dinner I ever had was one in the lumber woods up in the northern part of the State a number of years ago," remarked a citizen, while discussing the annual Thanksgiving holiday. "I was a young fellow then and had hired out early in May on a bark and log job. We were six miles in the woods from the nearest hamlet, and I staid on the job all summer, only going out a couple of days for the Fourth of July. When Thanksgiving came twelve of us were in the camp skidding the logs we had peeled and cut during the summer. All but three of us—young fellows whose homes were not nearby, and the man cook—left the camp for Thanksgiving.

"The night before we got after the cook to get us up a Thanksgiving dinner and he entered into the spirit. He had received a whole dressed hog that week, which with potatoes, turnips, cabbage and onions and some of the other staple raw material, constituted our fare. The cook cut out some fine spareribs, which he roasted, and for side dishes had mashed potatoes, turnips and boiled onions. A couple of us tramped throgh the snow to a small farm a couple of miles distant and got some milk, and the cook concocted an Indian meal bag pudding for dessert, for which he made a dressing, as well as a dressing for some cold slaw.

"After our plain fare that was a most regal feast, and I have never eaten a Thanksgiving dinner since that I enjoyed as much as I did that one I'd give a good deal if I had the same appetite and relish now that that I had then."

"This custom of buying groceries and food products in packages and cans, instead of by weight and measure, reminds me of my experience with the monetary system in the Philippines," remarked a Spanish-American war vereran the other day "In that free silver country their fractional copper coins had such a small value compared with our gold standard, that it took about a peck of the stuff to make a dollar of our money. When we used to play poker we bet small and large handfuls. For instance when one wanted to stay, but did not have a good hand he would say, 'I'll go you a small handful,' and would produce a moderate fistful of the Philippino copper coins If he had three aces and a pair, he'd say 'I'm in for a big handful,' and would produce all the coins he could grab.

"This is about the way you buy groceries in boxes and packages now, not by weight and measure, but by the handful, the size dependent upon what profit the manufacturer thinks he ought to have. The result is that instead of a big or little handful you get a small or a smaller handful."

Buddhism and Animal Life.

It must be said of Buddhism that it has left one indelible mark all over India, China, and the east, and that is the teaching of gentleness and kindness to one another and to animals. Buddha taught that life is but a prolonged endeavor to escape from suffering, and that, therefore, to cause others to suffer is the unforgiveable sin.—Price Collier in Scribner's Magazine.

Life of the Grapevine.

There are some who contend that the life of the grapevine is longer than that of the oak. It is rare that a wild grapevine is found that has died of old age. Pliny mentions a vine 600 years old. There is a vine at Hampton Court, England, planted in 1769, while here in America there is a wild grapevine on the shores of Mobile Bay, within a mile of Daphne, Ala. commonly known as the "General Jackson" vine, more than 6 feet in circumference at its base. There is a grapevine in Carpenteria, Cal., under which more than eight hundred persons may stand. Its trunk is eight feet in diameter at the base and it has borne as high as ten tons of fruit. It is said that this vine was planted in 1842.

Good Mental Tonic.

As appearance means so much to the average woman, mentally as well as socially, the question often arises, "Is she justified in aiding or improving nature if she sees fit?" Many of our well-known medical men think that "make-up" is as good a mental tonic as anyone can take and greatly advise its use, especially for the girl who has some slight personal defect—a scar, a poor complexion or bloodless lips, for the knowledge of her defects makes her shy and oftentimes sulky and miserable.

ODD WAYS OF THE COMMONS

Illustrated by the Imminent Peril of Mr. Pearce, Who Read Newspaper During Session.

A member of the British parliament remarks in London Opinion that the rules of the house of commons are past all understanding, and then proceeds to cite the case of Mr Pearce, M. P, and the imminent danger in which he one day appeared to be. This was when the sergeant-at-arms, with his terrible sword in hand, rose from his chair and rushed with cyclonic speed in the direction of the mild, meek and altogether unconscious-of-offense member It was quickly made clear what was the cause of this hasty saber charge by the sergeant. Mr. Pearce had actually been reading a newspaper, and there is no more heinous offense known to parliament. The members when in the chamber are not permitted to read newspapers for any purpose not immediately connected with the debate actually in progress, though one may succeed in doing it surreptitiously by folding the newspaper small and concealing it behind the order paper of the day, much like a boy may nibble at an apple in school, concealing the pippin behind his spelling book. Yet more gross breaches of parliamentary etiquette and decorum may be seen, members even wearing their hats when a fellow member is addressing the house, and even the dearest friends of an orator may go to sleep while he is delivering his choicest periods.

FIGHTING DISEASE ON THE FARM

Scientific Methods of State Board in Protecting Live Stock Investments.

PLANS SAVING OF MILLIONS

Vigorous Campaign Against Bovine Tuberculosis—Value of Laboratory Work to Stockmen and Veterinarians.

A state board at Harrisburg proposes to save the farmers of Pennsylvania five million dollars a year It is estimated that the farmers of this state annually lose live stock worth that amount of money by diseases which can be prevented The State Live Stock Sanitary Board has rendered valuable service to the Pennsylvania farmer since its organization fourteen years ago, but its work appears to have only begun The last census shows that there are 206,975 farms in Pennsylvania, and that the value of the live stock on these farms is $133,219,000. The plans of the state board to protect this investment from preventable losses from disease are being closely followed, not only by live stock raisers and breeders of the United States, but by those abroad.

Pennsylvania was the first state to organize and properly equip a laboratory where diseases of animals could be studied and recognized. It has proven of inestimable value to stockmen and veterinarians It is located at the veterinary school in Philadelphia, where all possible facilities are employed to study the mysterious diseases of animals. The laboratory is under the direction of Dr Karl F. Meyer, who was trained in the best schools of continental Europe. Dr Meyer also has charge of experimental work on the state farm, which is located in Delaware County. He, with his staff of qualified assistants, are engaged in studying the diseases of domestic animals in Pennsylvania. At the same time they are engaged in the preparation of many test fluids, such as tuberculin, mallein, etc., for the diagnosis of disease The preparation of vaccine and sera for all diseases against which preventive vaccination measures can be taken, are made in accordance with the latest advancements of science.

Wide Range of Laboratory Work.

Since Jan 1, 1911, 32,000 doses of tuberculin, 1000 doses of anthrax vaccine and sixty gallons of hog cholera serum have been prepared in the laboratory and distributed among Pennsylvania farmers free of cost These three products alone, if purchased in the market, would have cost practically $15,000 more than half the amount of money appropriated for laboratory work for the next two years Hog cholera causes the largest proportionate loss of any disease of swine, and this industry represents a money value of over six million dollars. Much of the laboratory work has been done under adverse circumstances, but ample facilities are now provided for doing the work under the best and safest conditions and much better results may be expected in the future.

During the period referred to the laboratory examined 550 pathological specimens sent in by local practitioners. In many cases the cause of the disease was discovered and valuable information furnished for handling it. The diseases caused by poisonous plants and parasites have been made the subject of special investigation. The laboratory has gained an international reputation on account of its tuberculosis research work, and it is hoped that with the improved facilities and equipment furnished by the state that it will take a prominent place among those of the countries of Europe in veterinry research work.

The fight of the board against bovine tuberculosis is an impressive feature of its efficient service to the cattle industry This was one of the first animal diseases to receive the board's attention The plans for handling it were carefully made and judiciously executed The first tuberculin testing in America was done by the late Dr. Leonard Pearson, and a vigorous campaign against this disease has been directed

Menace of Bovine Tuberculosis.

The laws and rules regulating the board's work are recognized as the best by veterinarians throughout the country Recently during six weeks 3742 head of cattle, brought into Pennsylvania for dairy purposes were submitted to the test. Of this number twenty-three failed to pass the test. During the same period 952 native cows were tested for farmers and forty were condemned and safely eliminated from the herds Dealers are much more in sympathy with the work of testing animals properly before offering them for sale Farmers are much more careful in purchasing cattle that are free from disease than ever before. Every intelligent person must realize that the work cannot be conducted successfully unless the disease is checked

The importance of keeping tuberculosis free herds is still more apparent in breeding herds All states in which dairying is carried on extensively have laws requiring that dairy and breeding cattle must be properly tested before they can be accepted from another state or country. It is imperative that dealers, dairymen and breeders should observe the laws, rules and regulations for shipping cattle from one state to another in accordance with the requirements of the state live stock sanitary board The federal authorities have wisely provided that cattle failing to pass a tuberculin test cannot be shipped or moved from one state to another.

Rabies is one of the most important diseases with which the state board has to deal. A rabid dog frequently bites and infects several animals in a herd, and the owner is not aware of its visit until the animal bitten shows symptoms of a strange disease that is seldom diagnosed properly until a veterinarian is called

Decline of Sheep Industry.

A few years ago Pennsylvania ranked high as a sheep raising state, while at the present time comparatively few sheep are kept The decline followed to a marked degree the development of mining in the western section of the state, not only because the mining operations decreased the amount of pasture lands, but because of the great number of foreigners who worked in the mines and gathered about them a vast horde of worthless dogs, over which they had little or no control These dogs were not confined and roamed about, fought with other dogs and spread rabies through those sections

During two months of this year thirty-four cases of rabies were reported from twenty-four counties, and in five additional cases the diagnosis of rabies was made at the laboratory Quarantines to the number of 161 were served on 425 animals, and they were kept under close observation for 100 days In four communities it was necessary to establish general quarantines, which covered territory ranging in size from one to five townships In addition to suppressing and eradicating the disease the state board, through representatives in the field, is endeavoring to educate farmers as to the symptoms presented by different animals affected with rabies

Anthrax has been prevalent in several sections of the state for years, and in some cases the losses have been high For the past few years the board has recommended the annual spring vaccination of animals against anthrax in sections where the disease has been known to exist

Expense Borne by the State.

The work is done at the expense of the state and the results have been uniformly satisfactory. In addition to the annual spring vaccination 457 animals were immunized this year during July and August in five counties Blackleg occurs occasionally in all portions of the state It has many points in common with anthrax and preventive vaccination is the only means known for checking it The state board has been remarkably successful in fighting it

A quarantine against Texas fever has been maintained by the federal bureau of animal industry for years, yet occasionally native cattle are confined in sheds driven across chutes or shipped in cars that have been contaminated by southern cattle and have not been properly cleaned or disinfected. During the past summer three outbreaks occurred in Pennsylvania In each case the disease was recognized promptly and its spread immediately checked Nearly 200 animals were exposed and twenty-four died

The board employs agents to supervise slaughter houses in the rural districts of the state As a result the rural slaughter houses now are better equipped, cleaner and far better managed than ever before Many diseased carcasses, which would have found their way to the table if they had not been discovered by these agents, have been condemned and destroyed The state provides money to pay the owner the appraised value of a condemned tuberculous carcass so he will not be tempted to dispose of it for food purposes to prevent his own loss.

Support of Tener Administration.

A milk hygiene service recently has been organized Three qualified agents have been selected to travel through the state and assist the local agents in carrying out the requirements of the board The bulk of the work will be carried on by local veterinarians Their principal duties at first will be along educational lines

The live stock sanitary board has received the support of every legislature since its organization The favorable attitude of Governor John K Tener is indicated by his deep interest in its work and his approval of measures intended to increase its efficiency Governor Tener is president of the board Its work is directed by Dr C J Marshall state veterinarian, and one on the highest authorities in this country on the diseases of domestic animals

Woman and the Farm.

In defining woman's relation to the life of the farm, one needs but little reflection to become aware of the all-pervading quality of that relationship. Just as the monarch of France, when asked to define the state, exclaimed, "The state; I am the state." So might the farmer's wife, when questioned as to the life of the farm, respond, "I am the life of the farm."

is time to retire for the night, and five minutes later all lights are extinguished.

"Every two weeks at 2:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoons, regular preaching services are held in the chapel, and the majority of the inmates, both men and women, attend. On alternate Sunday afternoons Mrs. Lide Hughes of Washington, is in charge of religious services at the home. Many of the inmates take considerable interest in these religious services.

"W. A. Ross, farmer at the County Home, submitted a brief report of the grain and provender raised on the farm the past season as follows: Fifteen hundred bushels of good corn was raised on the farm, and a considerable part of immatured stalks and ears was harvested and placed in a building 16x32 feet to form what is commonly called corn ensilage.

"The amount of oats harvested was 240 bushels, and of wheat 260 bushels The hay crop was light, owing to the long continued drought of last summer, but as it was from 40 to 50 tons of timothy and clover mixed were harvested. Only about 130 bushels of potatoes were grown on the farm the past season. If the weather had been more favorable instead of the long dry spell, from five to ten times that number of tubers would have been grown. In lieu of the deficiency in potatoes, Mr. Ross decided to try his luck at turnip growing and succeeded in raising more than 400 bushels.

"Mr. Ross reports that at present they have 85 head of thrifty hogs, and they expect to butcher 50 or more of that number in a short time. Nineteen head of milch cows are kept on the farm; also three head of horses, and a span of mules.

"Nearly two years ago the matter of drilling two gas wells on the County Home and Children's Home properties was taken into consideration by the grand jury, and it was recommended that the wells be drilled immediately. The following spring the wells were put down and both came in good gassers. The wells are keeping up a strong pressure and are supplying both institutions with an abundance of fuel and light. It is calculated that these wells have paid for the expense of drilling them twice over in the time elapsing since they were drilled.

"Owing to a quarantine existing at the Children's Home where one of the matrons is ill of scarlet fever the members of the grand jury were unable to visit that institution. They report themselves as being well pleased with the manner in which affairs are being conducted at the County Home by Superintendent and Mrs. Quivey and their corps of assistants."

Prison Recreations.

In German prisons chess clubs are by no means uncommon. They are encouraged by the authorities as providing healthful mental relaxation for well-conducted prisoners. Recently the inmates of Brixton prison have been regaled with oratorios, while at Aylesbury there are lectures and services of song.

Sarcastic Judge.

Baron Maule, in one of his sarcastic moods, addressed from the bench a barrister friend of mine thus: "Mr. Barker, could you not state your facts in some kind of order? Chronological is the best, but if you cannot manage that, try some other; alphabetical, if you please."—Sir Francis H. Doyle, "Reminiscences."

Prepared for Emergency.

"What makes you keep giving me fish for dinner day after day?" he inquired. "Are you particularly fond of it?" "No," she replied, "I was wholly unselfish. I read a lovely recipe about how to remove a fish bone when it sticks in your throat, and I wanted to try it."

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD

A delightful birthday party was given at the home of Mrs. J. T. Hormell Monday evening in honor of her son, Everett, it being his 13th birthday. Many of his little friends were present and he received quite a number of presents. The evening was spent in playing games of various kinds. Several selections were given on the piano by Francis Hott and Everett Hormell. Lunch was served at 9 o'clock. All the guests departed at a late hour, wishing their host many more birthdays.
